The origins of the card game are debatable, but most believe it was created in the 1400s by a man named Felix Falguierein or Felix Falguiere.

He called the game "baccara", which translates to "zero", as all tens and face cards were valued at zero (the French spelling "baccara) Tj T* BT /F

This original version of baccarat was not played the same way it is today.

Cards were dealt by four dealers, each player could be the banker, and players could place bets against fellow players and against the house.

In today's game there is one dealer, bets are typically placed against the house, and the house also fills in the banker role.

Baccarat may have not caught on with the public the same way games like real money roulette and blackjack have, but it still enjoys an air of exclusivity and prestige with many casino goers.
